Q: What is the CCCJ?

A: The CCCJ is a not-for-profit, private sector, membership business organization that strives to promote the development of Japan-Canada commerce and encourage bilateral economic ties.

Q: How many members does the CCCJ have?

A: At present, we have approximately 300 members.

Q: Do I have to be Canadian or work for a Canadian company to be a member?

A: No. Membership is open to anyone with an interest in Canadian and Japanese relations. In addition to Japanese and Canadians, we have members and organizations representing many other nationalities.

Q: How do I become a member?

A: Submit an application form with the membership dues and once receipt of payment is confirmed, the application will be presented for approval to the Membership Committee, after which your membership becomes effective. If an application is not approved, the membership fee is returned in full.

Q: What is the difference between categories?

A: The table below summarizes some of the benefits enjoyed by our members and the differences between categories of membership. Refer to our web site or contact our office for the most up-to-date and detailed information.

Q: Why should I become a member?

A: Membership provides profile in the community, access to Canadian and Japanese officials and other relevant organizations, and opportunities to attend informative events, seminars, and access to selected events of other foreign chambers.

Q: How can I get involved in the CCCJ?

A: Members can join one of our committees which work on various issues including trade policy, special projects and event topics. Members can also contribute articles to THE CANADIAN bi-monthly newspaper.

SAMPLES OF CCCJ EVENTS

Joint Chamber Networking Events

These events are held in cooperation with other foreign Chambers of Commerce in Japan. Over 350 guests attend the events, providing great opportunities for networking and building business contacts.

Ambassador Breakfast Briefing

Corporate, Small Business and Professional members are invited to the ambassador's official residence to hear his remarks and updates on Canada-Japan relations.
